

Originalarbeiten

Lan Cuong, N.: Unique burial practice by ancient cavemen of the Hoa Binh civilization in Vietnam. With 6 figures . . . . . 129-135

Siváková, D., Scheil, H.-G., Schmidt, H. D. & Vulpe, C.: Population affinities assessed by dermatoglyphic and hemogenetic variables. With 3 figures and 2 tables . . . . . 137-146

Baltova, S. & Scheil, H.-G.: Population genetic studies in Bulgaria. With 5 figures and 2 tables . . . . . 147-155

Gaur, R., Angrish, I. & Bansal, S. R.: Age, Gender and Caste Variations in Scalp Hair Micro-Morphological Variables among Brahmins and Banias of Punjab, India. With 1 figure and 7 tables . . . . . 157-168

Eggers, S., Hashimoto, D. M. & Kirchengast, S.: An evolutionary approach to explain the high frequency of the polycystic ovary syndrome (PCOS) . . . . . 169-179

Kirchengast, S.: Maternal age and pregnancy outcome – an anthropological approach. With 3 figures and 3 tables . . . . . 181-191

Scheffler, C., Ketelhut, K. & Mohasseb, I.: Does physical education modify the body composition? – Results of a longitudinal study of pre-school children. With 2 figures and 2 tables . . . . . 193-201

Schüler, G.: Head proportion and shape of the head of children between 2 and 7 years – Results of a longitudinal study. With 5 figures and 1 table . . . . . 203-212

Özer, B. K., Gültekin, T. & Mehmet, S.: Estimation of stature in Turkish adults using knee height. With 5 figures and 3 tables . . . . . 213-222

Berichte – Reports . . . . . 223-226

Referate – Book Reviews . . . . . 227-240

Unique burial practice
Binh civilization in Vietnam

Nguyen Lan Cuong

Institute of Archaeology, Vietnam

With 6 figures

Summary: The discovery of a find of the Hoa Binh civilization, existing about 10,000 years ago. This finding is the existence of earthenware sockets. The reasons for this in

Key words: Unique burial practice

A new archaeological site

In early 2005, the Institute of Archaeology of the Hanoi province started to dig up the

Fig. 1. The "Phia Vai" cave in the Hoa Binh province, Tuyen Quang township, Vietnam