

Biological and Cultural Markers of Environmental Pressure

9. International Congress of the German Society for Anthropology, September 12–16, 2011, Gottorf Castle, Schleswig-Holstein, Germany

Biological and Cultural Markers of Environmental Pressure – Editorial	IX–X
Bogin, B.: !Kung nutritional status and the original “affluent society” – a new analysis	349–366
Godina, E.Z.: Secular trends in some Russian populations	367–377
Harvati, K.: Neanderthals: Fossil evidence and DNA	379–392
Jankauskas, R., Miliauskienė, Ž., Stankevičiūtė, D. & Kuncevičius, A.: Im Osten etwas Neues: Anthropological analysis of remains of German soldiers from 1915–1918	393–414
Milner, G.R. & Ferrell, R.J.: Conflict and death in a late prehistoric community in the American Midwest	415–436
Quelly, S.B. & Lieberman, L.S.: Global prevalence of overweight and obesity in preschoolers	437–456
Schlegel, A.: Human development and cultural transmission	457–470
Tutkuvienė, J., Morkuniene, R., Bartkute, K. & Drazdiene, N.: Body size of newborns in relation to mother’s ethnicity and education: A pilot study from Vilnius city (Lithuania), 2005–2010	471–484
Abstracts No. 1–85	485–534