

Articles

Measuring oppressiveness of streetscapes

M. Asgarzadeh, A. Lusk (Boston, USA), T. Koga and K. Hirate (Japan) 1

Land-cover change to forest plantations: Proximate causes and implications for the landscape in south-central Chile

L. Nahuelhual, A. Carmona, A. Lara (Valdivia, Chile), C. Echeverría (Concepción, Chile) and M.E. González (Valdivia, Chile) 12

Tree and impervious cover in the United States

D.J. Nowak and E.J. Greenfield (Syracuse, NY, USA) 21

Changes in bird species richness through different levels of urbanization: Implications for biodiversity conservation and garden design in Central Brazil

E. Reis (Palmas, Brazil and Alicante, Spain), G.M. López-Iborra (Alicante, Spain) and R.T. Pinheiro (Palmas, Brazil)..... 31

Resident, developer, and city staff perceptions of LID and CSD subdivision design approaches

T. Bowman, J. Thompson and J. Tyndall (Ames, IA, USA) 43

The influence of landscape preference and environmental education on public attitudes toward wildfire management in the Northeast pine barrens (USA)

R.L. Ryan (Amherst, MA, USA)..... 55

The ability of zoning and land acquisition to increase property values and maintain largemouth bass growth rates in an amenity rich region

V. Butsic (Madison, WI, USA and Berlin, Germany), J.W. Gaeta (USA) and V. Radeloff (Madison, WI, USA)..... 69