

Crop & Pasture Science

Contents

Volume 64

Issue 11 & 12 2013

Special Issue: Cotton Catchment Communities CRC – Research Outcomes & Innovation (Part 2)

Foreword

Guy Roth, Jane Trindall, Paula Jones

i

Review papers

Water-use efficiency and productivity trends in Australian irrigated cotton: a review

Guy Roth, Graham Harris, Malcolm Gillies, Janelle Montgomery, David Wigginton

1033

The Australian Cotton Industry and four decades of deep drainage research: a review

D. M. Silburn, J. L. Foley, A. J. W. Biggs, J. Montgomery, T. A. Gunawardena

1049

A review of the soil science research legacy of the triumvirate of cotton CRC

Stephen R. Cattle, Damien J. Field

1076

Research and practice: environmental action for improving water quality in cotton catchments since 1990

I. R. Kennedy, M. T. Rose, A. Crossan, M. Burns

1095

Black root rot of cotton in Australia: the host, the pathogen and disease management

Lily L. Pereg

1112

Can sustainable cotton production systems be developed for tropical northern Australia?

S. J. Yeates, G. R. Strickland, P. R. Grundy

1127

Aquifer heterogeneity and response time: the challenge for groundwater management

B. F. J. Kelly, W. A. Timms, M. S. Andersen, A. M. McCallum, R. S. Blakers, R. Smith,

G. C. Rau, A. Badenhop, K. Ludowici, R. I. Acworth

1141

Research papers

Deep drainage in a Grey Vertosol under furrow-irrigated cotton

Anthony J. Ringrose-Voase, Anthony J. Nadelko

1155

Benefits of oxygation of subsurface drip-irrigation water for cotton in a Vertosol

L. Pendergast, S. P. Bhattarai, D. J. Midmore

1171

Hydrological and water-use efficiency implications of geomorphological stratification in palaeochannels in the Northern Murray–Darling Basin

C. P. Vanags, R. W. Vervoort

1182

An inter-catchment comparison of groundwater biota in the cotton-growing region of north-western New South Wales

K. L. Korbel, R. P. Lim, G. C. Hose

1195

Carbon storage value of native vegetation on a subhumid–semi-arid floodplain

Rhiannon Smith, Nick Reid

1209