

Fundamental and Applied Limnology
formerly: Archiv für Hydrobiologie
Contents of Vol. 187 No. 3, 2016

Doğan, E., Kocamaz, U. E., Utkucu, M. & Yıldırım, E.: Modelling daily water level fluctuations of Lake Van (Eastern Turkey) using Artificial Neural Networks .	177–189
Gibbins, C. N., Vericat, D., Batalla, R. J. & Buendia, C.: Which variables should be used to link invertebrate drift to river hydraulic conditions?	191–205
Gibbins, C. N., Grant, J., Malcolm, I. A. & Soulsby, C.: Influence of groundwater chemistry on hyporheic invertebrate assemblages is revealed by fine-scale sampling.	207–221
Boon, P. J., Willby, N., Gilvear, D. & Pryce, D.: The regional hyporheic fauna of gravel-bed rivers and environmental controls on its distribution.	223–239
Yang, J., Li, B., Zhang, C., Luo, H. & Yang, Z.: pH-associated changes in induced colony formation and growth of Scenedesmus obliquus	241–246
Taylor, B. E., Bulak, J. S. & Morrison, J.: Dominance of invasive mollusks in the benthos of Lake Marion, a large impoundment in South Carolina, USA.	247–261