

Marine Biology Research

Volume 14 - Numbers 9-10 - Pages 899 - 1003 2018

Contents

ORIGINAL ARTICLES

- Species diversity of eukalyptorhynch flatworms (Platyhelminthes, Rhabdocoela) from the coastal margin of British Columbia: Polycystididae, Koinocystididae and Gnathorhynchidae
Niels W. L. Van Steenkiste and Brian S. Leander 899
- Ocean warming drives decline in coral metabolism while acidification highlights species-specific responses
Keisha D. Bahr, Ku'u'ulei S. Rodgers and Paul L. Jokiel 924
- Parmales ecology in Magdalena Bay, Mexican Pacific coast
Heriberto Rochín-Bañaga, Rafael Cervantes-Duarte, Mara Y. Cortés, Felipe García-Romero and Alejandro Ramos-Rodríguez 936
- Mesoscale distribution and population structure of the chaetognath Serratosagitta tasmanica (Thomson, 1947) from Southwestern Atlantic Ocean
Inés Sotelo, Gustavo Thompson, Marina Sabatini, Raúl Reta and María Cristina Daponte 945
- The diet of two opportunistic seabirds (Caspian and Royal Terns) confirms the importance of Sardinella spp. in West African coastal food webs
Edna Correia, José Pedro Granadeiro, Aissa Regalla, Hamilton Monteiro and Paulo Catry 961
- Otoliths as a tool to study reef fish population structure from coastal islands of South Brazil
Johnatas Adélir-Alves, Felipe A. L. M. Daros, Henry L. Spach, Marcelo Soeth and Alberto T. Correia 973
- Predation of the round goby (Neogobius melanostomus Pallas, 1814) on Atlantic herring eggs in the Western Baltic Sea
Joschka Wiegleb, Paul Kotterba, Cornelius Hammer and Daniel Oesterwind 989