

CONTENTS

Volume 14 Number 6 2019

ARTICLES

- Perceptions of a Healthier Neighborhood Food Environment Linked to Greater Fruit and Vegetable Purchases at Small and Non-Traditional Food Stores
Timothy L. Barnes, Kathleen Lenk, Caitlin E. Caspi, Darin J. Erickson, and Melissa N. Laska 741
- The Community Food Environment and Food Insecurity in Sioux Lookout, Ontario: Understanding the Relationships between Food, Health, and Place
Barbara Parker, Kristin Burnett, Travis Hay, and Kelly Skinner 762
- Fruit and vegetable access programs and consumption in low-income communities
Victoria A. Bradford, Emilee L. Quinn, Lina P. Walkinshaw, Anita Rocha, Nadine L. Chan, Brian E. Saelens, and Donna B. Johnson 780
- Subscription to a Fresh Produce Delivery Program Increases Intake and Variety of Vegetables at no Added Cost to Customers
Rayane AbuSabha and Meaghan Gargin 796
- Assessing the Nutrition and Family Usage of a Backpack Food Program
Idamarie Laquatra, Brandon Vick, and Amanda Poole 810
- SNAP benefit levels and enrollment rates by race and place: evidence from Georgia, 2007–2013
Sarah K.S. Shannon, Grace Bagwell Adams, Jerry Shannon, and Jung Sun Lee 823
- Implementation of a WIC clinic farmers' market improves accessibility and consumption of fresh fruits and vegetables among WIC farmers' market nutrition program participants
Lanae Ball, Jesse Andrews, Kenneth Gruber, and Jigna Dharod 838
- Container gardening to combat micronutrients deficiencies in mothers and young children during dry/lean season in northern Ghana
Clement Kubreziga Kubuga, Andrew Dillon, and Won Song 850
- Bridging the gaps between ecology and nutrition: a middle school–university collaboration
Madeline Dunfee and Diana Cuy Castellanos 864
- Internet Resources
Christine McCullum-Gomez 877