

The Journal of Chinese Medicine

Issue 128 | February 2022

- |  |   |
|--|---|
| 2 EditorialDaniel Maxwell   | 38 The Anatomy of ExpressionMichelle Gellis  |
| 3 TCM Treatment of the Convalescent Stage of COVID-19Peilin Sun                           | 45 Myths of Menopause in Chinese Medicine PracticeCaroline Radice  |
| 10 Why Acupuncturists Should Practise QigongPeter Deadman                                 | 52 Finding Your Way Through the Forest – A TCM Practitioner’s Guide to Evaluating Research: Part 2Tony Reid              |
| 15 An 18th Century View of Classical Acupuncture: Yīxué Yuánliúlùn by Xú DàchūnTom Ehrman | 59 In Pursuit of the Jade Body: The Influence of Acupuncture on Nutrient Sensing Longevity PathwaysJamie Lynn Villanueva |
| 21 The Collective as Aetiology in the Clinical Practice of Chinese MedicineBrian Falk     | 68 Reviews   |
| 28 The Divergent Pathways (Jing Bie): Background and ApplicationBrechtje Sebreghs         | 71 News  |